Wyoming Birds for Kids Author Pam Moore Visit Reviews in 2026

From Henry A. Coffeen School, Sheridan:

Cougar Collaboration: Fantastic author visit from Pam Moore

It was an honor to have Pam Moore come and talk to all of our students at Henry A. Coffeen Elementary School. She generously gave her time to speak for an hour to each grade level separately. Her engagement with the students was top-notch. She brought a calm and positive energy to each talk. She presented information about Wyoming birds using puppets, bird noises, songs, and various other activities. Watching each presentation transform to fit each grade was a thrill. I highly recommend everyone take the opportunity to meet Pam Moore.

Thanks again Pam. It was wonderful to have you and hope to see you again.

Hello,

Pam Moore delivered an outstanding presentation on her book, Wyoming Birds for Kids, keeping students thoroughly captivated from start to finish. Her engaging style and humor resonated immediately with the room, inspiring active listening and enthusiastic participation during the hands-on activities. The presentation struck a perfect balance between fun and education, leaving such an impression that students continued talking about the birds of Wyoming long after she finished.

Hello Pam!
Some of my students in my second and third grade class wanted to write you thank you cards for taking the time to come out and teach them about Wyoming birds. I've attached their letters below. Thank you for taking the time to educate our students, they had a blast! We will have to have you come out and visit again.

Also from Story School:

Pam Moore's presentation on her book, Wyoming Birds for Kids, was an outstanding experience for our kindergarten through 5th grade students at Story Elementary. She kept students fully engaged from beginning to end through interactive activities, movement, and meaningful real-world comparisons that made learning memorable and fun.

Students especially enjoyed learning bird facts through rhyme and hands-on examples, such as comparing the weight of a chickadee to a marshmallow and a hummingbird to a ping pong ball. Pam brought Wyoming birds to life by encouraging students to move and dance like cranes and sage grouse, which created excitement and laughter throughout the presentation.

One of the highlights was when students measured and compared their own wingspans to Wyoming birds such as eagles, cranes, owls, and hawks. This interactive activity helped students better understand the impressive size and uniqueness of these birds. Students were also inspired to creatively express themselves by drawing their favorite Wyoming bird at the end of the presentation.

Pam Moore's enthusiasm, creativity, and ability to connect with students of all ages made this presentation both educational and highly engaging. Our students left excited about Wyoming birds and eager to continue learning more about wildlife and nature.

From Johnson County Library:

Pam,

Thank you again for coming down and providing such a great program for the Buffalo kids! It was so fun to see the kids engaged and excited about birds. We also had great feedback from parents and grandparents who were grateful for the learning experience. I'm sure you inspired some future bird-watchers! We'd love to have you for a program again someday. Thanks so much to the Bighorn Audubon Society for supporting such a great program!

We had 17 kids and 10 adults in attendance.

Best of luck with the book! I'll send on my recommendation to the Natrona and Campbell County libraries. If I can be of assistance in any other way, please don't hesitate to reach out.
